ANARCHISTS ARE DENIED NEW TRIAL

Alleged Slayers of Paymaster Must Go To Death Tuesday After Escaping Electric Chair For Seven Years Unless Eleventh Hour Stay Is Procured—State Supreme Court Refuses Plea of Defense Attorneys.

The Massachusetts supreme court Friday denied Bartolomeo Vanzetti and Nichai Sacco their latest appeal and the attorneys for the condemned men turned to their last resort in the courts—the supreme court of the United States.

Defense attorneys left immediately for Fitchburg to ask Chief Justice Hall of the superior court for a stay to enable them to carry the case to the United States supreme court.

In a sweeping decision made public Friday, the full bench of the state supreme court acting for the third time destroyed the last hopes of Sacco and Vanzetti of escaping the death chair thru the Massachusetts courts.

As a result of the decision the two anarchists, who have escaped the electric chair for seven years, will be put to death early Tuesday unless an eleventh-hour appeal to the United States supreme court succeeds.

Vanzetti and Sacco were expected to be transferred during the day from their cells in the Cherry Hill section of Charlestown state prison to the death house.

The United States supreme court is not in session and the application for a writ of certiorari would have to be considered by the court as a whole.

A further respite from the death sentence would have to be obtained before Monday night. It could be granted by the governor, the trial court or by any individual justice of the United States supreme court.

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes is on vacation in Massachusetts and an application for a stay will probably be made to him. He recently refused the defense a writ of habeas corpus.

In their cells Sacco and Vanzetti had been waiting with some degree of optimism. Sacco had been cheered by a visit from his 13-year old son, who Thursday saw his father for the first time since he had been transferred from Dedham jail.

Vanzetti was waiting expectantly for an early visit from his sister, who was due in New York from Italy. Sacco's wife, Aldine Feliciani, treasurer of the Defense committee and others had gone to New York to meet Miss Vanzetti and bring her to Boston by automobile.

the prosaic barber shop of the prison Thursday when Sacco greeted his young son. The condemned man gave the boy some fatherly advice.

"Dante, I want you to work for humanity," Sacco said. "Life is not to be spent working for gold and riches. They mean nothing after all, and bring you no happiness."

"Help your fellowmen—make that your ambition. Never forget, as you grow older, all that these good friends of mine have done for me during our troubles."

"They have done their best to help us. If they have not succeeded, remember that they have done their best. Always remember that and be grateful to them."

A protest meeting of Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers, held Thursday night at the scenic auditorium in the Back Bay, was conducted without intervention by the police who had stopped two previous meetings.

NICK-A-JACK CAVE HOLDS ITS SECRET

Rescuers Hope to Locate Geologist Ashley by Forcing Underground River.

Nick-a-Jack Cave continues to hold the secret of the disappearance of Lawrence S. Ashley, geologist and cave explorer, of Shell Mound, Tennessee, who went into the cave Monday on an exploration trip. With eight searching parties turned back after penetrating the subterranean passage for a few miles, workers planned to drag an underground river and to rebuild a small dam near the cave mouth in an effort to force the stream to navigable proportions. The stream, from 25 to 40 feet wide and varying from 10 feet to a few inches deep, is believed to be the possible means of locating Ashley.

With the river swelled to a navigable depth, the party plans to penetrate the cave, dragging the clear stream as it goes.

A rescue party of five, led by G. W. Lewis, discovered a number of caverns several miles back in the cave, but was unable to reach them by boat. It is thought that Ashley, the small supply of carbide for his lamp exhausted, might have wandered into one of these in the darkness and was unable to retrace his path.

"If Lawrence Ashley is not found by Sunday, I will take a searching party and attempt to go thru the mountain," Francis H. Davis, Chattanooga, radio operator, and one of Ashley's closest friends, said.

Rose Love's Messenger

In medieval France, where much was made of the significance of colors and every emotion was thus illustrated, red became the color of love and the red rose became love's messenger. Could anything be more fitting? For, according to ancient tradition, was it not Venus' blood that stained the white rose, her foot being pricked once when she hastened to the aid of Adonis?—New York Times.

Bugaboo of Preparing Dinner On Sunday Eliminated By Careful Plans

UNDAY dinner is no longer a dreaded ordeal that takes up the greater part of the housewife's day. Dinners, if properly planned, may be well balanced and still easy to prepare, giving the home manager time to attend church services and for recreation. Desserts may be prepared on Saturday or Sunday morning and vegetables, such as potatoes, tomatoes and lettuce washed and peeled ahead of time, leaving only the actual cooking and serving for the meal time.

A note book in the kitchen will help. This may contain the menu and a few of the less familiar recipes together with a list of the utensils and food needed for the preparation of the meal. Such menus and recipes as the following may aid the busy cook:

Menu

Levity Resented

A man who had bought a very valuable building site was surveying his newly acquired property in a mood of reverie when a stranger, in a similar mood, accosted him.

"Sir," said the man, "I remember when this property was a farm. Why, I buried a dog here in those days. And now I read that it has been sold for half a million."

"Yes," said the new owner, with a smile, "I bought it."

The stranger was obviously hurt. "But what I'm telling you," he said, "is the truth."

SALE OF BEER IS URGED BY RETIRING OFFICIAL

Supervisor Waddell Says It Is Only Way To Put Enforcement On Sound Basis.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Amendment of the Volstead Act to permit the sale of 2.75 per cent beer was suggested by James C. Waddell, retiring supervisor of alcohol and brewery control of the prohibition bureau, as the only way to put dry law enforcement on a fundamentally sound basis.

Attacking present enforcement conditions as farcical, Waddell, who leaves office Sept. 2, declared his advocacy of 2.75 per cent beer simply was a "suggestion to those Americans who wish to see prohibition enforced to bring about the prevention of drunkenness." "It obviously is no wedge to pave the way for the return of the old saloon conditions because beverages of sufficient alcoholic content to become intoxicating are prohibited by the eighteenth amendment," he said, adding that his views "point to the same goal as those of the temperance organizations."

Assistant Secretary Lowman, in charge of prohibition enforcement, declined to comment on the statement.

Her Own Fault

It is said there never was a woman philosopher. The saying got a start, probably, because women believe all the gallant things men say about them; in all the idealism they read about. Men are philosophers because they discount such things as idealism, gallantry, patriotism; it was a man who said patriotism is the first resort of a scoundrel. — E. W. Howe's Monthly.

MISSING TEACHER WAS POPULAR WITH PUPILS

Caro, Mich., Aug. 18.—(UP.)—Thirty-three youngsters, pupils of Mildred Doran in the fifth grade of the Caro Consolidated School, stormed all possible sources of information today for the news of "Miss Mildred," lost on the Pacific. A newspaper and radio shop were overrun by Miss Doran's pupils.

Mildred has been a pal as well as a teacher. Since the closing of schools in June she has been scrupulously careful to send clippings and pictures to each one of her charges and these are cherished devoutly.

The feeling was expressed by Richard Godell, 11, who said today: "Well, she slapped my hands sometimes, but I liked her just the same."

To which Marjorie Moore, 9, retorted, "she was just dandy."

Most of the pupils are below the 10-year mark and only a few of them appeared to realize Miss Doran's possible fate. On being told that the teacher was possibly in the Pacific ocean far from land, little Betty Myers said defiantly: "Teacher can swim."

Doris Larsen, one of the elder girls, seemed to scent the tragedy.

"Isn't teacher coming back at all?" she asked.

Mildred was equally popular with the parents, several of them testified. They like her way of entering wholeheartedly into the children's games and the manner in which she commands their complete confidence. All were extremely worried as to Miss Doran's fate.

Mrs. Holmes, in whose home Mildred stayed while she was in Caro, described the teacher today as "quiet and unassuming and a fine girl in every respect."

Judicious Coughing

The English clergyman who, in beginning his sermon, asked the congregation to cough only at the end of sentences, was heard, let us hope, in comparative silence. His idea was a good one, and it is capable of extension. The bronchial audience so often in attendance at operas and concerts might well cough, but it can usually be controlled, except in severe cases by a little will power.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

CLOSE OF A SUCCESSFUL YEAR

August 15 our last regular meeting of the year was held. We have all enjoyed it very much and all have worked hard to complete our work. We are looking for a bigger and better time in 1928.

About 1:30 the Jackson Clothing Club members began to arrive at the home of Elizabeth Fischer. Our president, Bertha Carle, called the meeting to order. We responded to roll call, "Have you enjoyed your work or has it been a Drag?" Twenty-two members and two visitors were present.

As a reward for the completion of our work ahead of time, our leader, Miss Mary Shortridge, has promised us a trip. Plans for the achievement program were made.

After the meeting was adjourned we played games for awhile. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and lemonade were served.

The club members thank Mr. Lewis and Mr. Wright for the fine time we had at the Campfire program August 2.

U. S. DOCTOR'S BILL
2 BILLION YEARLYIndividual Earning Power Cut $20 by Sickness.

Washington.—Industrial America is absorbing $2,000,000,000 doctor's bill annually. Premature deaths cost another $6,000,000,000 in economic losses.

Despite striking progress made in checking some diseases in the last decade, the earning power of every person in the United States is reduced an average of almost $20 a year through ill health.

These facts were made public in some impressive statistics compiled by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Through them the chamber hopes to call attention of business men and manufacturers to the enormous toll sickness and preventable deaths exact from the nation's earning power.

The final price industries pay for sickness has never been determined.
The chamber declares. Only estimates may be presented, based upon records obtained from varied sources.

One manufacturer with an annual pay roll approximating $5,000,000 estimated illness among his employees cost $287,500 annually. This includes charges for idle machinery and reduced production.

The loss to the individuals and the community due to illness of his employees is placed at $303,000 a year, taking into consideration direct loss of wages, lowered earning capacity during convalescence, medical expenses and charitable relief.

In the business world, a representative group of stores, the chamber says, showed that illness and injury cost each employee an average of six days a year.

For a working force of 1,000 persons, earning an average of $3 daily, this totals up to $18,000 a year in direct wage loss alone.

The chamber points out that encouraging progress has been made in checking disease. The future promises even greater strides in this direction through improved sanitary conditions.

Tuberculosis, diphtheria, typhoid, influenza and pneumonia, which once exact the greatest toll in human life, are being brought more under control each year, the chamber declares.
Reduction of the tuberculosis mortality rate alone, since 1900, means a saving to the nation of $2,000,000,000 a year, it is estimated.

College Girls' DiariesRead in Mental Test

Hamilton, N. Y.—"I had a weird dream last night, but I don't remember it," says college girl number one ingenuously, and college girl number two shrieks with laughter at the absurdity of remembering what you don't remember.

This type of foolish jesting is the sort of humor that appeals most widely to the feminine collegian, judging from "humor diaries" kept by psychology students at Vassar college.

The diaries were kept in connection with an experiment to find out whether people are at all consistent in enjoying one kind of funny situation more than another, according to Polyxene Kambouropoulou, who has reported the investigation to Industrial Psychology. Over one-third of all the humorous incidents recorded by the students belong to one class, she found. Mental inferiority is the basis of these jokes, which are aimed at mistakes, ignorance, absent-mindedness, naive remarks, laughing at one's own foolishness, social breaks and blunders.

A close study of what each student found most ridiculous indicates that "laughing at nothing in particular" is a trait more likely to be found among students of lower academic standing.

North Coast Indians TooProsperous to Take Jobs

Puyallup, Wash.—North coast Indians of Washington and British Columbia are too prosperous this year to accept work in the berry and hop fields here. Thus far only six families have arrived from reservations to get their old jobs. The big hauls of fur seal, salmon, and bounties from sealions have enabled most of the red men to deposit money enough in banks for a summer's rest and recreation, which they dearly loved. Usually several thousand Indians from numerous tribes migrate here in summer under special government permission to get family jobs.

Rome Began Permanent Wave Back in 198 A. D.

Princeton, N. J.—The permanent wave is not an invention of modern hairdressers but was known to Roman women as early as 68 A. D., Shirley H. Weber, associate professor in Princeton university, declared here recently. Professor Weber said this was clearly indicated on coins in the collection at the university library.

In the late Roman period, he said, women's heads are represented not only with distinct marcelling, but also with elaborate jewelry to emphasize the waves. The realistic art of this period, he said, would forbid the representation of these styles if they were not actually in use.

HORSE BOARD WAS LOW LAST
TWELVEMONTHFarm Records Reveal That Feed Costs Were Cheaper Than in Last Decade.

The board bill for a horse on an Ohio farm was less last year than for any year in the past decade, farm records studied by economists of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station now show.

An average of $60.73 was enough to feed a horse last year, if 82 horses on 20 Putnam county farms are typical of horses the state over. Their feed records were part of the complete farm records kept in cooperation with the agricultural extension service of the Ohio State university and experiment station.

Lower prices for corn, oats and hay in 1926 were responsible for the lower cost of feeding horses last year, explains John F. Dowler, rural economist on the experiment station staff.

During 1920-24, according to records of 22 Medina county farmers the average annual feed cost for a horse was $103.39. Part of the lower cost in Putnam county last year, however, Mr. Dowler points out, existed because the Putnam county men fed 200 pounds less grain per horse and allowed them to pasture three months longer than did the Medina county farmers.

The menu on these Putnam county farms last year was 22 bushels of corn and 18 bushels of oats for the grain ration for each horse. This was supplemented with 300 pounds of hay, 2600 pounds of corn stover, and 206 pounds of ensilage per horse.
Besides these feeds, the horses were allowed to graze on pasture after work hours for six months of the year.

OHIO'S CORN
CROP REDUCED
ONE FOURTHProspects are For Only 72 Per Cent of the Yield of Last Year.

A fourth less corn than last year will be produced in Ohio this year if present crop prospects are fulfilled at harvest time. For the nation as a whole, the 1927 corn crop gives promise of being 10 per cent less than the crop of 1926.

Last year Ohio produced 145 million bushels of corn. This year, with prospects for 72 per cent of last year's crop, Ohio is likely to harvest about 104 million bushels, according to C. R. A. Arnold, rural economics extension specialist at the Ohio State university.

Total production in the United States, according to the August report of the United States department of agriculture, is likely to be about 2385 million bushels, as compared with 2646 million bushels last year, which was an average crop.

Some states, Mr. Arnold reports, have a better outlook for a corn crop than Ohio. Kansas, Nebraska, and the Dakotas have prospects for a production above last year.

Indiana and Illinois, however, have chances for more of a decrease in their crop than Ohio. Six states just east of the Mississippi—Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky, where about a third of the corn crop is normally produced, have prospects for only 68 per cent of the crop they produced last year. Iowa, Missouri and Minnesota also have an indicated reduction in corn production this year.

Effect of Feed on Eggs

The chemical analysis of eggs is only very slightly affected by the ration of the hen. A very deficient ration will affect the analysis slightly, but moderate variations do not affect it. The vitamin content of eggs is affected materially by the character of the ration.

First to Make Good

The first successful typewriter in the world was patented on June 23, 1868, by three associates of Milwaukee, Wis. The inventors were O.
Latham Sholes, printer and editor;
Samuel W. Soule, a printer, and Carlos Glidden, a capitalist.

Inside or Out?

"I would be glad," said the clergyman, after he had given out the text for his sermon, "if the young man who is standing outside the door would come in and make absolutely certain whether she is here tonight or not.
That would be a great deal better than opening the door half an inch or so and thereby exposing the necks of the people in the back row to a current of cold air."

Buick Sedan Becomes 7-Ton Truck

R. O. Hamil of Ludington, Mich., covers 140 miles a day with this heavy-duty vehicle, made by combining the chassis and front end of a 1920 Buick sedan with the rear end of a truck. The improvised truck hauls five to seven tons of logs at a time, the load pictured being typical.

One of the severest tests ever imposed on a motor car came to light recently thru R. O. Hamil, of Ludington, Michigan, who wrote the Buick Motor company of Flint, Michigan, that a modified Buick sedan in his possession was doing satisfactory duty as a seven-ton truck, covering 140 miles each day with loads of logs.

Mr. Hamil wrote: "After having driven Buicks the past seven years with excellent service and little expense, I conceived the idea of putting the front end of a 1920 seven passenger sedan on the rear end of a well known heavy duty truck. This was accomplished by sawing the frames in two and lapping them together, and also lengthening the drive shaft and brake rods.

"This truck is now making two round trips on a 35-mile haul, covering 140 miles each day with a load weighing from five to seven tons, which speaks very well for the Buick of 1920."

Mr. Hamil is driving his sixth Buick passenger car, and also still has his first, a 1920 sedan which he write, is in perfect condition.

Boy With Half-Pant Lost

AMUSEMENTS
One of the largest and most important all-star casts of the year is to be seen in Cosmopolitan's "The Flaming Forest" directed by Reginald Barker at the Met theater Monday.
At least fifteen of these players have won their spurs on stage as well as screen and several have been featured or starred in their own right.
Antonio Moreno, at one time a Vitagraph star, has the role of Sergeant Carrigan of the Northwest Mounted Police, while Renee Adoreen who played opposite John Gilbert in "The Big Parade," has the role of the lovely Jeanne Marie.
Moreno, one of the most popular male players of the screen, was born in Spain but it is his work in America that has made him a screen favorite the world over. During the last year he has forged rapidly to the front and has given interpretations in Elinor Glyn's "Love Blindness" and Cosmopolitan's "The Temptress" that will equal almost anything the screen has offered this year.
Miss Adoree, as was predicted by critics of "The Big Parade," has reached a height she never before attained on the screen. Her great work opposite Gilbert convinced the picture-goers that she would become one of the truly great and her work as Jeanne Marie in "The Flaming Forest" has proven it.

MEMORIES OF OLD EVERTS

The reunion of the class of old Everts of 1907 which was planned to be held yesterday afternoon in Scippo Park was held instead at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Riegel, in East Main street because of the inclement weather.

About twenty were present and thoroughly enjoyed the first reunion of the class. A picnic supper was served and the class colors of yellow and purple were carried out in the flowers which were used to decorate the rooms. Mrs. Riegel and Dr. Lloyd Jonnes entertained the guests with reminiscences of exploits performed during their school days. While they were all seated at the table letters were read from Prof. F. A. Cosgrove, Toledo; Mrs. Maud Laughlin Park, Detroit, Mich.; E. Marion Lutz, Indianapolis, Ind., and Mrs. Beulah Kindler Frew, Niles, who were unable to be present.

Those present were Prof. and Mrs. T. Otto Williams, Petersburg, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cook, children Jane and Howard Jr., Miss Marie Wigginton, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lucas, Piqua, Ohio; Mrs. Ralph Wrightsel, Portsmouth; Mr. and Mrs. George Fickardt, Miss Bess Fry, Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jonnes, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Riegel, Mr. and Mrs. Evan Reichelderfer, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Boggs.

It was planned to hold a second reunion in five years.

U. S. MARKET SERVICE COVERS GREAT AREA

Million Dollar Bureau Gives Free Aid to Farmers

Washington.—Every farmer in the United States has access to a million-dollar information bureau.

It is Uncle Sam's market news service operated by congressional appropriation. Daily, throughout the country, it correlates the radio, ocean cables and miles of telephone and telegraph wires in distributing quotations. Allied with the titanic system, co-operative "listening posts," clearing houses of information, are supervised by the bureau of agriculture economics. The newest such institution has been established in San Francisco, at request of the California Vinyardist association. It will gather data on prices, supply and distribution of grapes.

Lists Number of Carloads.

The information will show the number of carloads of each variety and grade sold at different prices. Railroads will supply figures on the number of cars of each variety of grapes moved to the market. Eastern points will send supplemental reports every 25 hours on shipments received and distributed.

Similar plans for the citrus industry were discussed at a conference here between Secretary of Agriculture Jardine and Florida representatives. Georgia peach growers, and producers of other material crops in all parts of the United States may likewise avail themselves of governmental co-operation during the market season.

"These clearing houses for market information," economists say, "insure an even distribution of products and an even tenor in prices. By knowing where his produce is needed, the shipper is not faced with the probability of a flooded market one day and a skimmed one the next. Steady flow to the market solves the problem of individual overproduction and works to a better average price for each grower."

"Through the market news service any part of the country may know exactly how many barrels, bushels or pounds of farm products are rolling to market every hour in the day and the prices offered at all terminal points."

The Network of Wires.

"Compilation of such vast knowledge is made possible through uniform operation of 7,351 miles of government-leased telegraph wires, working 12 hours a day. More than 2,000 market reporters supply detailed information from all principal centers in the United States and abroad. Cabled information is obtained from the International Institute at Rome, to which 90 countries subscribe."

"By telephone at 38 relay points and through more than 100 radio stations every individual or institution in the land interested in any manner of produce market reports has constant access to the most complete quotations in the world."

Bird Has Multiplied

The English sparrow was brought to the United States from England in 1850 by Nicholas Pike and other directors of the Brooklyn Institute, when eight pairs were liberated in Brooklyn, N. Y. The motive was to free the shade trees of devastating caterpillars, which at that time were especially numerous and annoying throughout the eastern states.

"Tail" May Precede Comet

The naval observatory says that the tail of a comet is directed away from the sun, and therefore precedes the comet when the latter is receding from the sun. It is called the "tail" on account of its appearance, regardless of whether it follows or precedes the comet.

Amateur Critics

An artist was making a water-color sketch in Lincoln park. Two urchins stood behind him, and watched him quietly for a while. Then, quite suddenly, one said to the other, in tones of wistful regret: "George, just fancy, a little time ago that was a lovely piece of white paper."—Chicago News

Fell in Love With "The Bear"

By EDGAR T. MONFORT

(Copyright)

SHE was listed in the directory as "Ellis, Margaret, Miss, Nurse James Walker Hospital," but to her associates she was "Sunshine" and Sunshine she was from the top of her bushy gold head down to her little feet that seemed to fairly twinkle as she hurried from one patient's room to another carrying comfort and cheer to all. To Sunshine they were fascinatingly interesting, the old lady in 29 who was so gentle and patient and never in too much pain to say "Thanks, Miss"; the crabbed old man in 34 who blustered and swore at the sight of a hypodermic needle, then submitted as sweet as a lamb.

But the patient in 19! They called him The Bear.

His chart read "Wilson, John. Age 26. Architect. 460 General Building. Admitted March 16. Appendicitis. Peritonitis. Operated 11 p. m." The chart left out all the interesting human things as most records will do. It did not say that Wilson, John, was tall and dark and nervous and had a vile temper, nor was this tendency diminished by his having spent six whole weeks lying on one side while the poison drained out of his system. Of course, the doctors had told him months before that he might find himself with a ruptured appendix some day, but he had so dreaded the operation and the pain that he had postponed it until too late, thereby increasing his suffering a thousand-fold, just as the doctors had croakingly predicted. When his bell rang the unfortunate nurse answering it would go into his room like Daniel entering the lion's den, a saucy white cap peering around the edge of the door, ready for instant flight.

"Come in!" he would call irritably. "You look as if you were scared to death. I won't bite. I'm not a rattlesnake. Come in, do. For heaven's sake, come in!"

Sunshine always got the difficult cases because she could manage people, so, it was soon understood that whenever possible she should answer 19's bell. She was not afraid of him, so she would breeze into his room, stand at the foot of his bed, salute, smile at him and say, "Orders, Sir!" Once in awhile she would actually make him laugh. He was such a nice thing if people only knew how to take him, she thought, but they were always antagonizing him.

Then one morning when she went in she found him with his head turned to the wall, and his shoulders heaving in quick sympathy she went over and put a gentle hand on his arm.

"Oh, Mr. Wilson, what's the matter?" she asked. "Tell Sunshine."

For a long time he was silent, then after a little more coaxing she finally succeeded in getting him to talk.

"I know I've got a terrible temper, but I do try to hold it in. I don't like to be shunned by the nurses as if I were a leper or something. I know no one will ever care for me because I do fly off all the time, but I don't feel mean inside. Every friendship I've ever had I've lost by it because people don't understand. The second I see them beginning to flinch from me it makes me furious and I say things that I'd give my life to recall a moment later."

"I don't feel that way," said Sunshine. "Why you're nice. It's nerves makes you so irritable. If you'd relax when you begin to feel keyed up. And that old appendix has been worrying you. You're going to be fine now, I know it; just start all over again."

"You're a little angel," he said gratefully. "I can't tell you how much you mean to me. If—if I were to reform would you—do you think? Oh, I have no right to ask it. You could marry anyone on earth. Some wealthy chap with the disposition of a saint, but I would try so hard to improve. With some one to care and to love me the fight would be so much easier."

"I do love you," said Sunshine flushing. "And what's a little temper between friends?"

"Do you mean it?" he asked quickly.

"You're too wonderful!"

"Wonderful, pooh!" laughed Sunshine. "All the same I'm terribly glad you feel that way about it."

When Doctor Morton, the hospital dean, walked in a few minutes later he was amazed, dumfounded to see a bronze gold head almost hidden in The Bear's shoulder.

"Good Lord, now Sunshine's gone!" he muttered. "That makes three in a month. I'm going to have to bar men from entering this hospital."

Of course, the news went all over the building like wildfire and by 10:30 everybody knew that Sunshine had at last fallen in love and of all the unexpected things, with The Bear!

"What'll you do when he gets cross?" they asked in awe.

"I just won't get cross when he does. That's the only secret to managing an irritable person and, oh, girls, he's so wonderful. You don't know how dear he is. I don't know how I ever lived before I met him," she said, her eyes wide with wonder.

"Ah ha," laughed Dorothea Maxton, nodding her head sagely. "I thought she always seemed awfully willing to answer his bell. I believe this thing's been going on a long time. Love certainly is like lightning; you never know when and where it's going to strike."

OPPORTUNITY IS BECKONING YOUNG PEOPLE

Chances For Success Were Never Better—Task Should be Done Very Thoroughly.

"What are the chances of success for a young person today as compared with the opportunities of a generation ago?"

This question was recently asked of this writer by a correspondent, who received the answer that never before were the opportunities for worthy success better than now.

It should be borne in mind that environment has now and always has had less to do with personal advancement than the individual's attitude toward the problems of life. Generally speaking, one's own fate is in one's own hands. Perhaps one of the most common errors made by those who fail to make advancement lies in their lack of concentration and thoroughness.

Superficiality is but another name for thriftiness in time and opportunity.

The problems of life are so large and complex and the range of human endeavor is so wide that individual effort, to be effective, must be limited to definite lines. The young man of today has a limitless range of opportunities before him and he can successfully fit into the scheme of progress if he will realize that there is always need for those who can do things well.

Our schools and colleges are sending their young men and young women out into the world. While they have completed their academic lessons, they still have before them those larger lessons which can be learned only in the practical school of life. In entering this new life the one practical lesson they should learn first of all is that it is better to know one thing well than to know a score of things superficially, and that it is better to be able to do one thing right than to have twenty slipshod accomplishments.

Not doing things well is no better than not doing them at all. To perform one's tasks thoroughly is a very good exemplification of thrift because it is only thru this thoroughness of performance that any one can make adequate advancement.

UNKNOWN UNCLE WILLS MILLIONS

Fortune From Africa Goes to Australia.

Sydney.—David White, middle-aged Sydney business man, awoke one morning to find himself heir to over $1,250,000 in cash and $10,000,000 worth of real estate, a fortune amassed by his uncle in diamond dealing in South Africa.

Behind the inheritance is a story revealing bleak depths of human bitterness and suffering. It goes back to the middle of the last century, when Solomon Wheinsky was a fur dealer at Nishni-Novgorod in Russia.

Solomon revolted against the exorbitant demands of the czarist taxgatherer. His brother, a partner in the business, disappeared mysteriously into the mines of Siberia.

Solomon Wheinsky and two sisters fled. They suffered bitterly from cold and hunger before they reached Riga, whence they got aboard a smuggler's schooner and were taken to Amsterdam, whence Solomon went to London and his two sisters to the United States.

Solomon Wheinsky settled in Whitechapel in 1852 and became a "kosher" butcher. He married a Russian girl and changed his name to White. He had two sons, Abel and Aaron.

Aaron married outside his faith, and so long was the continuance of bitterness that Abel's son, David, decided to start life afresh in Australia.

Meantime Aaron White had gone to South Africa, where he joined the group of men about Cecil Rhodes, the uncrowned king of South Africa for the last fifteen years of the last century. It was there that the fortune which has fallen to David White was amassed.

Aaron White traded in diamonds, and he emerged from the welter of those frightful days a wealthy man. He employed his money in speculation and grew richer.

Yields Valuable Timber

Yew is one of the most characteristic evergreen trees in Great Britain. It attains a great age and yields an exceedingly hard timber. Yew was the favorite wood for the old English long-bow, and its extreme hardness renders it suitable for cabinet work, axletrees and the like where strength and durability are required.

Use Fish Oil to Hold

Poison on Fruit Trees

Washington.—Insult is added to injury in the newest trick devised by Department of Agriculture scientists in their war against insect pests. Fish oil, never noted for its fragrance, is recommended by Clifford E. Hoed of the bureau of entomology as an addition to the arsenic solutions sprayed on trees and bushes to protect them from the ravages of gypsy and brown-tail moth caterpillars.

The oil is not expected to discourage the pests by its smell, however—it is highly unlikely that the caterpillars even know it is there. Mr. Hoed has found in his experiments that various oils used in paints will help to hold the dried drips of the poison sprays on the leaves much longer, and that after a summer of rains a considerable percentage of the arsenic will still be there, ready to do business with any caterpillar foolish enough to chew up the leaf to which it adheres.

Linseed oil is even more efficient in this way than is fish oil, but it costs so much more that the fish oil is recommended as the economic happy mean.

Smoke Blight in

Paris Brings Action

Paris.—The smoke and fumes of this industrial age are putting blemishes on the face of Paris.

Smoke has not only begun to blacken the once gray wall of Notre Dame, but the poisonous particles from factories and automobile exhaust pipes are gnawing at the delicately carved stonework. Already several pieces have fallen from Notre Dame, from the palace of justice and from other celebrated buildings. Even the Madeleine, the classic Nineteenth century church at the head of the Rue Royale, had to be repaired and cleaned from steps to roof this year.

The city of Paris has appointed a commission to see what can be done about it.

Alleged Slayers of Paymaster Must Go To Death Tuesday After Escaping Electric Chair For Seven Years Unless Eleventh Hour Stay Is Procured—State Supreme Court Refuses Plea of Defense Attorneys.

The Massachusetts supreme court Friday denied Bartolomeo Vanzetti and Nicholas Sacco their latest appeal and the attorneys for the condemned men turned to their last resort in the courts—the supreme court of the United States.

Defense attorneys left immediately for Fitchburg to ask Chief Justice Hall of the superior court for a stay to enable them to carry the case to the United States supreme court.

In a sweeping decision made public Friday, the full bench of the state supreme court acting for the third time destroyed the last hopes of Sacco and Vanzetti of escaping the death chair thru the Massachusetts courts.

As a result of the decision the two anarchists, who have escaped the electric chair for seven years, will be put to death early Tuesday unless an eleventh-hour appeal to the United States supreme court succeeds.

Vanzetti and Sacco were expected to be transferred during the day from their cells in the Cherry Hill section of Charlestown state prison to the death house.

The United States supreme court is not in session and the application for a writ of certiorari would have to be considered by the court as a whole.

A further respite from the death sentence would have to be obtained before Monday night. It could be granted by the governor, the trial court or by any individual justice of the United States supreme court.

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes is on vacation in Massachusetts and an application for a stay will probably be made to him. He recently refused the defense a writ of habeas corpus.

In their cells Sacco and Vanzetti had been waiting with some degree of optimism. Sacco had been cheered by a visit from his 13-year old son, who Thursday saw his father for the first time since he had been transferred from Dedham jail.

A touching scene was enacted in the prosaic barber shop of the prison Thursday when Sacco greeted his young son. The condemned man gave the boy some fatherly advice.

"Dante, I want you to work for humanity," Sacco said. "Life is not to be spent working for gold and riches. They mean nothing after all, and bring you no happiness."

"Help your fellowmen—make that your ambition. Never forget, as you grow older, all that these good friends of mine have done for me during our troubles."

"They have done their best to help us. If they have not succeeded, remember that they have done their best. Always remember that and be grateful to them."

A protest meeting of Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers, held Thursday night at the scenic auditorium in the Back Bay, was conducted without intervention by the police who had stopped two previous meetings.

TWO FIRE ALARMS

An alarm was sent in from box 12, at 11 o'clock Friday night. Someone threw a lighted match into gasoline that had leaked from an auto reservoir in front of Antom Gerner's cleaning establishment and set fire to it. There was no damage.

Saturday morning about 8 o'clock an alarm was turned in from box 51, at Court and Mill streets. Underclothing placed in front of a fire to dry at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Gilmore caught fire and was destroyed. The loss is estimated at $15, covered by insurance.

NICK-A-JACK CAVE HOLDS ITS SECRET

Rescuers Hope to Locate Geologist Ashley by Forcing Underground River.

Nick-a-Jack Cave continues to hold the secret of the disappearance of Lawrence S. Ashley, geologist and cave explorer, of Shell Mound, Tennessee, who went into the cave Monday on an exploration trip. With eight searching parties turned back after penetrating the subterranean passage for a few miles, workers planned to drag an underground river and to rebuild a small dam near the cave mouth in an effort to force the stream to navigable proportions. The stream, from 25 to 40 feet wide and varying from 10 feet to a few inches deep, is believed to be the possible means of locating Ashley.

With the river swelled to a navigable depth, the party plans to penetrate the cave, dragging the clear stream as it goes.

A rescue party of five, led by G. W. Lewis, discovered a number of caverns several miles back in the cave, but was unable to reach them by boat. It is thought that Ashley, the small supply of carbide for his lamp exhausted, might have wandered into one of these in the darkness and was unable to retrace his path.

"If Lawrence Ashley is not found by Sunday, I will take a searching party and attempt to go thru the mountain," Francis H. Davis, Chattanooga, radio operator, and one of Ashley's closest friends, said.

Rose Love's Messenger

In medieval France, where much was made of the significance of colors and every emotion was thus illustrated, red became the color of love and the red rose became love's messenger. Bugaboo of Preparing Dinner On Sunday Eliminated By Careful Plans

UNDAY dinner is no longer a dreaded ordeal that takes up the greater part of the housewife's day. Dinners, if properly planned, may be well balanced and still easy to prepare, giving the home manager time to attend church services and for recreation. Desserts may be prepared on Saturday or Sunday morning and vegetables, such as potatoes, tomatoes and lettuce washed and peeled ahead of time, leaving only the actual cooking and serving for the meal time.

A note book in the kitchen will help. This may contain the menu and a few of the less familiar recipes together with a list of the utensils and food needed for the preparation of the meal. Such menus and recipes as the following may aid the busy cook:

Levity Resented

A man who had bought a very valuable building site was surveying his newly acquired property in a mood of reverie when a stranger, in a similar mood, accosted him.

"Sir," said the man, "I remember when this property was a farm. Why, I buried a dog here in those days. And now I read that it has been sold for half a million."

"Yes," said the new owner, with a smile, "I bought it."

The stranger was obviously hurt.

"But what I'm telling you," he said, "is the truth."

SALE OF BEER

IS URGED BY RETIRING OFFICIAL

Supervisor Waddell Says It Is Only Way To Put Enforcement On Sound Basis.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Amendment of the Volstead Act to permit the sale of 2.75 per cent beer was suggested by James C. Waddell, retiring supervisor of alcohol and brewery control of the prohibition bureau, as the only way to put dry law enforcement on a fundamentally sound basis.

Attacking present enforcement conditions as farcical, Waddell, who leaves office Sept. 2, declared his advocacy of 2.75 per cent beer simply was a "suggestion to those Americans who wish to see prohibition enforced to bring about the prevention of drunkenness."

"It obviously is no wedge to pave the way for the return of the old saloon conditions because beverages of sufficient alcoholic content to become intoxicating are prohibited by the eighteenth amendment," he said, adding that his views "point to the same goal as those of the temperance organizations."

Assistant Secretary Lowman, in charge of prohibition enforcement, declined to comment on the statement.

Her Own Fault

It is said there never was a woman philosopher. The saying got a start, probably, because women believe all the gallant things men say about them; in all the idealism they read about. Men are philosophers because they discount such things as idealism, gallantry, patriotism; it was a man who said patriotism is the first resort of a scoundrel.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

MISSING TEACHER WAS POPULAR WITH PUPILS

Caro, Mich., Aug. 18.—(UP.)—Thirty-three youngsters, pupils of Mildred Doran in the fifth grade of the Caro Consolidated School, stormed all possible sources of information today for the news of "Miss Mildred," lost on the Pacific. A newspaper and radio shop were overrun by Miss Doran's pupils.

Mildred has been a pal as well as a teacher. Since the closing of schools in June she has been scrupulously careful to send clippings and pictures to each one of her charges and these are cherished devoutly.

The feeling was expressed by Richard Godell, 11, who said today:

"Well, she slapped my hands sometimes, but I liked her just the same."

To which Marjorie Moore, 9, retorted, "she was just dandy."

Most of the pupils are below the 10-year mark and only a few of them appeared to realize Miss Doran's possible fate. On being told that the teacher was possibly in the Pacific ocean far from land, little Betty Myers said defiantly: "Teacher can swim."

Doris Larsen, one of the elder girls, seemed to scent the tragedy.

"Isn't teacher coming back at all?" she asked.

Mildred was equally popular with the parents, several of them testified. They like her way of entering wholeheartedly into the children's games and the manner in which she commands their complete confidence. All were extremely worried as to Miss Doran's fate.

Mrs. Holmes, in whose home Mildred stayed while she was in Caro, described the teacher today as "quiet and unassuming and a fine girl in every respect."

Judicious Coughing

The English clergyman who, in beginning his sermon, asked the congregation to cough only at the end of sentences, was heard, let us hope, in comparative silence. His idea was a good one, and it is capable of extension. The bronchial audience so often in attendance at operas and concerts might well cough, but it can usually be controlled, except in severe cases by a little will power.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

CLOSE OF A SUCCESSFUL YEAR

August 15 our last regular meeting of the year was held. We have all enjoyed it very much and all have worked hard to complete our work. We are looking for a bigger and better time in 1928.

About 1:30 the Jackson Clothing Club members began to arrive at the home of Elizabeth Fischer. Our president, Bertha Carle, called the meeting to order. We responded to roll call, "Have you enjoyed your work or has it been a Drag?" Twenty-two members and two visitors were present.

As a reward for the completion of our work ahead of time, our leader, Miss Mary Shortridge, has promised us a trip. Plans for the achievement program were made.

After the meeting was adjourned we played games for awhile. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and lemonade were served.

The club members thank Mr. Lewis and Mr. Wright for the fine time we had at the Campfire program August 2.

U. S. DOCTOR'S BILL
2 BILLION YEARLY

Individual Earning Power Cut $20 by Sickness.

Washington.—Industrial America is absorbing $2,000,000,000 doctor's bill annually. Premature deaths cost another $6,000,000,000 in economic losses.

Despite striking progress made in checking some diseases in the last decade, the earning power of every person in the United States is reduced an average of almost $20 a year through ill health.

These facts were made public in some impressive statistics compiled by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Through them the chamber hopes to call attention of business men and manufacturers to the enormous toll sickness and preventable deaths exact from the nation's earning power.

The final price industries pay for sickness has never been determined, the chamber declares. Only estimates may be presented, based upon records obtained from varied sources.

One manufacturer with an annual pay roll approximating $5,000,000 estimated illness among his employees cost $287,500 annually. This includes charges for idle machinery and reduced production.

The loss to the individuals and the community due to illness of his employees is placed at $303,000 a year, taking into consideration direct loss of wages, lowered earning capacity during convalescence, medical expenses and charitable relief.

In the business world, a representative group of stores, the chamber says, showed that illness and injury cost each employee an average of six days a year.

For a working force of 1,000 persons, earning an average of $3 daily, this totals up to $18,000 a year in direct wage loss alone.

The chamber points out that encouraging progress has been made in checking disease. The future promises even greater strides in this direction through improved sanitary conditions.

Tuberculosis, diphtheria, typhoid, influenza and pneumonia, which once exacted the greatest toll in human life, are being brought more under control each year, the chamber declares. Reduction of the tuberculosis mortality rate alone, since 1900, means a saving to the nation of $2,000,000,000 a year, it is estimated.

College Girls' Diaries

Read in Mental Test

Hamilton, N. Y.—"I had a weird dream last night, but I don't remember it," says college girl number one ingeniously, and college girl number two shrieks with laughter at the absurdity of remembering what you don't remember.

This type of foolish jesting is the sort of humor that appeals most widely to the feminine collegian, judging from "humor diaries" kept by psychology students at Vassar college.

The diaries were kept in connection with an experiment to find out whether people are at all consistent in enjoying one kind of funny situation more than another, according to Polyxene Kambourpoulou, who has reported the investigation to Industrial Psychology. Over one-third of all the humorous incidents recorded by the students belong to one class, she found. Mental inferiority is the basis of these jokes, which are aimed at mistakes, ignorance, absent-mindedness, naive remarks, laughing at one's own foolishness, social breaks and blunders.

A close study of what each student found most ridiculous indicates that "laughing at nothing in particular" is a trait more likely to be found among students of lower academic standing.

North Coast Indians Too

Prosperous to Take Jobs

Puyallup, Wash.—North coast Indians of Washington and British Columbia are too prosperous this year to accept work in the berry and hop fields here. Thus far only six families have arrived from reservations to get their old jobs. The big hauls of fur seal, salmon, and bounties from sealions have enabled most of the red men to deposit money enough in banks for a summer's rest and recreation, which they dearly loved. Usually several thousand Indians from numerous tribes migrate here in summer under special government permission to get family jobs.

Rome Began Permanent Wave Back in 198 A. D.

Princeton, N. J.—The permanent wave is not an invention of modern hairdressers but was known to Roman women as early as 68 A. D., Shirley H. Weber, associate professor in Princeton university, declared here recently. Professor Weber said this was clearly indicated on coins in the collection at the university library.

In the late Roman period, he said, women's heads are represented not only with distinct marcelling, but also with elaborate jewelry to emphasize the waves. The realistic art of this period, he said, would forbid the representation of these styles if they were not actually in use.

HORSE BOARD WAS LOW LAST TWELVEMONTH

Farm Records Reveal That Feed Costs Were Cheaper Than in Last Decade.

The board bill for a horse on an Ohio farm was less last year than for any year in the past decade, farm records studied by economists of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station now show.

An average of $60.73 was enough to feed a horse last year, if 82 horses on 20 Putnam county farms are typical of horses the state over. Their feed records were part of the complete farm records kept in cooperation with the agricultural extension service of the Ohio State university and experiment station.

Lower prices for corn, oats and hay in 1926 were responsible for the lower cost of feeding horses last year, explains John F. Dowler, rural economist on the experiment station staff.

During 1920-24, according to records of 22 Medina county farmers the average annual feed cost for a horse was $103.39. Part of the lower cost in Putnam county last year, however, Mr. Dowler points out, existed because the Putnam county men fed 200 pounds less grain per horse and allowed them to pasture three months longer than did the Medina county farmers.

The menu on these Putnam county farms last year was 22 bushels of corn and 18 bushels of oats for the grain ration for each horse. This was supplemented with 300 pounds of hay, 2600 pounds of corn stover, and 206 pounds of ensilage per horse. Besides these feeds, the horses were allowed to graze on pasture after work hours for six months of the year.

OHIO'S CORN
CROP REDUCED
ONE FOURTH

Prospects are For Only 72 Per Cent of the Yield of Last Year.

A fourth less corn than last year will be produced in Ohio this year if present crop prospects are fulfilled at harvest time. For the nation as a whole, the 1927 corn crop gives promise of being 10 per cent less than the crop of 1926.

Last year Ohio produced 145 million bushels of corn. This year, with prospects for 72 per cent of last year's crop, Ohio is likely to harvest about 104 million bushels, according to C. R. A. Arnold, rural economics extension specialist at the Ohio State university.

Total production in the United States, according to the August report of the United States department of agriculture, is likely to be about 2385 million bushels, as compared with 2646 million bushels last year, which was an average crop.

Some states, Mr. Arnold reports, have a better outlook for a corn crop than Ohio. Kansas, Nebraska, and the Dakotas have prospects for a production above last year.

Indiana and Illinois, however, have chances for more of a decrease in their crop than Ohio. Six states just east of the Mississippi—Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky, where about a third of the corn crop is normally produced, have prospects for only 68 per cent of the crop they produced last year. Iowa, Missouri and Minnesota also have an indicated reduction in corn production this year.

Effect of Feed on Eggs

The chemical analysis of eggs is only very slightly affected by the ration of the hen. A very deficient ration will affect the analysis slightly, but moderate variations do not affect it. The vitamin content of eggs is affected materially by the character of the ration.

First to Make Good

The first successful typewriter in the world was patented on June 23, 1868, by three associates of Milwaukee, Wis. The inventors were O. Latham Sholes, printer and editor; Samuel W. Soule, a printer, and Carlos Glidden, a capitalist.

Inside or Out?

"I would be glad," said the clergyman, after he had given out the text for his sermon, "if the young man who is standing outside the door would come in and make absolutely certain whether she is here tonight or not. That would be a great deal better than opening the door half an inch or so and thereby exposing the necks of the people in the back row to a current of cold air."

Buick Sedan Becomes 7-Ton Truck

R. O. Hamil of Ludington, Mich., covers 140 miles a day with this heavy-duty vehicle, made by combining the chassis and front end of a 1920 Buick sedan with the rear end of a truck. The improvised truck hauls five to seven tons of logs at a time, the load pictured being typical.

One of the severest tests ever imposed on a motor car came to light recently thru R. O. Hamil, of Ludington, Michigan, who wrote the Buick Motor company of Flint, Michigan, that a modified Buick sedan in his possession was doing satisfactory duty as a seven-ton truck, covering 140 miles each day with loads of logs.

Mr. Hamil wrote: "After having driven Buicks the past seven years with excellent service and little expense, I conceived the idea of putting the front end of a 1920 seven passenger sedan on the rear end of a well known heavy duty truck. This was accomplished by sawing the frames in two and lapping them together, and also lengthening the drive shaft and brake rods.

"This truck is now making two round trips on a 35-mile haul, covering 140 miles each day with a load weighing from five to seven tons, which speaks very well for the Buick of 1920."

Mr. Hamil is driving his sixth Buick passenger car, and also still has his first, a 1920 sedan which he writes, is in perfect condition.

Boy With Half-Pant Lost

His parents will be grateful if any one can give information about him at 210-3-2 Cornwalls street."

AMUSEMENTS

One of the largest and most important all-star casts of the year is to be seen in Cosmopolitan's "The Flaming Forest" directed by Reginald Barker at the Met theater Monday.

At least fifteen of these players have won their spurs on stage as well as screen and several have been featured or starred in their own right.

Antonio Moreno, at one time a Vitagraph star, has the role of Sergeant Carrigan of the Northwest Mounted Police, while Renee Adoree who played opposite John Gilbert in "The Big Parade," has the role of the lovely Jeanne Marie.

Moreno, one of the most popular male players of the screen, was born in Spain but it is his work in America that has made him a screen favorite the world over. During the last year he has forged rapidly to the front and has given interpretations in Elinor Glyn's "Love Blindness" and Cosmopolitan's "The Temptress" that will equal almost anything the screen has offered this year.

Miss Adoree, as was predicted by critics of "The Big Parade," has reached a height she never before attained on the screen. Her great work opposite Gilbert convinced the picture-goers that she would become one of the truly great and her work as Jeanne Marie in "The Flaming Forest" has proven it.

MEMORIES OF OLD EVERTS

The reunion of the class of old Everts of 1907 which was planned to be held yesterday afternoon in Scippo Park was held instead at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Riegel, in East Main street because of the inclement weather.

About twenty were present and thoroughly enjoyed the first reunion of the class. A picnic supper was served and the class colors of yellow and purple were carried out in the flowers which were used to decorate the rooms. Mrs. Riegel and Dr. Lloyd Jonnes entertained the guests with reminiscences of exploits performed during their school days. While they were all seated at the table letters were read from Prof. F. A. Cosgrove, Toledo; Mrs. Maud Laughlin Park, Detroit, Mich.; E. Marion Lutz, Indianapolis, Ind., and Mrs. Beulah Kindler Frew, Niles, who were unable to be present.

Those present were Prof. and Mrs. T. Otto Williams, Petersburg, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cook, children Jane and Howard Jr., Miss Marie Wigginton, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lucas, Piqua, Ohio; Mrs. Ralph Wrightsel, Portsmouth; Mr. and Mrs. George Fickardt, Miss Bess Fry, Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jonnes, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Riegel, Mr. and Mrs. Evan Reichelderfer, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Boggs.

It was planned to hold a second reunion in five years.

U. S. MARKET SERVICE COVERS GREAT AREA

Million Dollar Bureau Gives Free Aid to Farmers

Washington.—Every farmer in the United States has access to a million-dollar information bureau.

It is Uncle Sam's market news service operated by congressional appropriation. Daily, throughout the country, it correlates the radio, ocean cables and miles of telephone and telegraph wires in distributing quotations.

Allied with the titanic system, co-operative "listening posts," clearing houses of information, are supervised by the bureau of agriculture economics. The newest such institution has been established in San Francisco, at request of the California Vineyardist association. It will gather data on prices, supply and distribution of grapes.

Lists Number of Carloads.

The information will show the number of carloads of each variety and grade sold at different prices. Railroads will supply figures on the number of cars of each variety of grapes moved to the market. Eastern points will send supplemental reports every 25 hours on shipments received and distributed.

Similar plans for the citrus industry were discussed at a conference here between Secretary of Agriculture Jardine and Florida representatives. Georgia peach growers, and producers of other material crops in all parts of the United States may likewise avail themselves of governmental co-operation during the market season.

"These clearing houses for market information," economists say, "insure an even distribution of products and an even tenor in prices. By knowing where his produce is needed, the shipper is not faced with the probability of a flooded market one day and a skimmed one the next. Steady flow to the market solves the problem of individual overproduction and works to a better average price for each grower."

"Through the market news service any part of the country may know exactly how many barrels, bushels or pounds of farm products are rolling to market every hour in the day and the prices offered at all terminal points."

The Network of Wires.

"Compilation of such vast knowledge is made possible through uniform operation of 7,351 miles of government-leased telegraph wires, working 12 hours a day. More than 2,000 market reporters supply detailed information from all principal centers in the United States and abroad. Cabled information is obtained from the International Institute at Rome, to which 90 countries subscribe."

"By telephone at 33 relay points and through more than 100 radio stations every individual or institution in the land interested in any manner of produce market reports has constant access to the most complete quotations in the world."

Bird Has Multiplied

The English sparrow was brought to the United States from England in 1850 by Nicholas Pike and other directors of the Brooklyn Institute, when eight pairs were liberated in Brooklyn, N. Y. The motive was to free the shade trees of devastating caterpillars, which at that time were especially numerous and annoying throughout the eastern states.

"Tail" May Precede Comet

The naval observatory says that the tail of a comet is directed away from the sun, and therefore precedes the comet when the latter is receding from the sun. It is called the "tail" on account of its appearance, regardless of whether it follows or precedes the comet.

Amateur Critics

An artist was making a water-color sketch in Lincoln park. Two urchins stood behind him, and watched him quietly for a while. Then, quite suddenly, one said to the other, in tones of wistful regret: "George, just fancy, a little time ago that was a lovely piece of white paper."—Chicago News

TOURISTS GOING TO CANADA

Urged To Display Flags of Both Nations On Their Cars.

Tourist travel between this country and Canada will be larger this coming summer than ever before. It seems quite safe to make that assertion without qualification. And in making it, we have in mind only the growing popularity of motor touring, and not thought at all of the oasis just created in Ontario.

Last year not a little unpleasantness was caused by some of our tourists who drove their cars along Canadian highways, with American flags fluttering gaily on hoods that were quite bare of British flags. Probably in not a single case was there intentional slight of Canada. Those who offended either were ignorant of the rule for international courtesy in such a case, or had forgotten. But however unintentional the slight, the effect not infrequently was the same as intended insult would have produced. With touring more general than ever this year, it is to be hoped that our motorists in the next few months will not mar their trips in Canada by flying only their own flag.

This is not admission, of course, that the tourist needs to decorate his car with flags. It is only a reminder of the rule for the use of flags if the urge to people * * * make least use of it (their flag) in their private concern * * * (they) do not use the flag as an automobile decoration any more than they would think of using it to push the sale of merchandise. That sounds sensible. The Mail and Empire says it by way of friendly reminder to say: "The most patriotic decorat cannot be resisted. The Toronto Mail and Empire, discussing the flag on the motor, has ly suggestion to both Canadian and American tourists. And it concludes with the question: "Why not leave the flag out altogether?" For the life of us, we cannot think of a single reason why that shouldn't be done.

Spruce Lumber, Cut for War, to Be Used in Peace

Port Angeles, Wash.—Millions of feet of spruce lumber logged and sawed by government forces during the latter days of the World war are now in demand for building the airplanes of peace, according to numerous inquiries received here the last two weeks. The spruce lumber stored in the war basis sheds to season is in excellent condition for airplane needs while most of the logs lying in the assembly yards are sound as the day they were felled.

Fell in Love With "The Bear"

By EDGAR T. MONFORT

(Copyright)

SHE was listed in the directory as "Ellis, Margaret, Miss, Nurse James Walker Hospital," but to her associates she was "Sunshine" and Sunshine she was from the top of her burnished gold head down to her little feet that seemed to fairly twinkle as she hurried from one patient's room to another carrying comfort and cheer to all. To Sunshine they were fascinatingly interesting, the old lady in 29 who was so gentle and patient and never in too much pain to say "Thanks, Miss"; the crabbed old man in 34 who blustered and swore at the sight of a hypodermic needle, then submitted as sweet as a lamb.

But the patient in 101? They called him The Bear.

His chart read "Wilson, John. Age 26. Architect. 460 General Building. Admitted March 16. Appendicitis. Peritonitis. Operated 11 p. m." The chart left out all the interesting human things as most records will do. It did not say that Wilson, John, was tall and dark and nervous and had a vile temper, nor was this tendency diminished by his having spent six whole weeks lying on one side while the poison drained out of his system. Of course, the doctors had told him months before that he might find himself with a ruptured appendix some day, but he had so dreaded the operation and the pain that he had postponed it until too late, thereby increasing his suffering a thousand-fold, just as the doctors had croakingly predicted. When his bell rang the unfortunate nurse answering it would go into his room like Daniel entering the lions' den, a saucy white cap peering around the edge of the door, ready for instant flight.

"Come in!" he would call irritably. "You look as if you were scared to death. I won't bite. I'm not a rattle-snake. Come in, do. For heaven's sake, come in!"

Sunshine always got the difficult cases because she could manage people, so it was soon understood that whenever possible she should answer 10's bell. She was not afraid of him, so she would breeze into his room, stand at the foot of his bed, salute, smile at him and say, "Orders, Sir!" Once in awhile she would actually make him laugh. He was such a nice thing if people only knew how to take him, she thought, but they were always antagonizing him.

Then one morning when she went in she found him with his head turned to the wall, and his shoulders heaving in quick sympathy she went over and put a gentle hand on his arm.

"Oh, Mr. Wilson, what's the matter?" she asked. "Tell Sunshine."

For a long time he was silent, then after a little more coaxing she finally succeeded in getting him to talk.

"I know I've got a terrible temper, but I do try to hold it in. I don't like to be shunned by the nurses as if I were a leper or something. I know no one will ever care for me because I do fly off all the time, but I don't feel mean inside. Every friendship I've ever had I've lost by it because people don't understand. The second I see them beginning to flinch from me it makes me furious and I say things that I'd give my life to recall a moment later."

"I don't feel that way," said Sunshine. "Why're you nice, it's nerves makes you so irritable. If you'd relax when you begin to feel keyed up. . . And that old appendix has been worrying you. You're going to be fine now, I know it; just start all over again."

"You're a little angel," he said gratefully. "I can't tell you how much you mean to me. If—if I were to reform would you—do you think? Oh, I have no right to ask it. You could marry anyone on earth. Some wealthy chap with the disposition of a saint, but I would try so hard to improve. With some one to care and to love me the fight would be so much easier."

"I do love you," said Sunshine flushing. "And what's a little temper between friends?"

"Do you mean it?" he asked quickly. "You're too wonderful!"

"Wonderful, pooh!" laughed Sunshine. "All the same I'm terribly glad you feel that way about it."

When Doctor Morton, the hospital dean, walked in a few minutes later he was amazed, dumfounded to see a bronze gold head almost hidden in The Bear's shoulder.

"Good Lord, now Sunshine's gone!" he muttered. "That makes three in a month. I'm going to have to bar men from entering this hospital."

Of course, the news went all over the building like wildfire and by 10:30 everybody knew that Sunshine had at last fallen in love and of all the unexpected things, with The Bear!

"What'll you do when he gets cross?" they asked in awe.

"I just won't get cross when he does. That's the only secret to managing an irritable person and, oh, girls, he's so wonderful. You don't know how dear he is. I don't know how I ever lived before I met him," she said, her eyes wide with wonder.

"Ah ha," laughed Dorothea Maxton, nodding her head sagely. "I thought she always seemed awfully willing to answer his bell. I believe this thing's been going on a long time. Love certainly is like lightning; you never know when and where it's going to strike."

OPPORTUNITY IS BECKONING YOUNG PEOPLE

Chances For Success Were Never Better—Task Should be Done Very Thoroughly.

"What are the chances of success for a young person today as compared with the opportunities of a generation ago?"

This question was recently asked of this writer by a correspondent, who received the answer that never before were the opportunities for worthy success better than now.

It should be borne in mind that environment has now and always has had less to do with personal advancement than the individual's attitude toward the problems of life. Generally speaking, one's own fate is in one's own hands. Perhaps one of the most common errors made by those who fail to make advancement lies in their lack of concentration and thoroughness.

Superficiality is but another name for thriftiness in time and opportunity.

The problems of life are so large and complex and the range of human endeavor is so wide that individual effort, to be effective, must be limited to definite lines. The young man of today has a limitless range of opportunities before him and he can successfully fit into the scheme of progress if he will realize that there is always need for those who can do things well.

Our schools and colleges are sending their young men and young women out into the world. While they have completed their academic lessons, they still have before them those larger lessons which can be learned only in the practical school of life. In entering this new life the one practical lesson they should learn first of all is that it is better to know one thing well than to know a score of things superficially, and that it is better to be able to do one thing right than to have twenty slipshod accomplishments.

Not doing things well is no better than not doing them at all. To perform one's tasks thoroughly is a very good exemplification of thrift because it is only thru this thoroughness of performance that any one can make adequate advancement.

UNKNOWN UNCLE WILLS MILLIONS

Fortune From Africa Goes to Australia.

Sydney.—David White, middle-aged Sydney business man, awoke one morning to find himself heir to over $1,250,000 in cash and $10,000,000 worth of real estate, a fortune amassed by his uncle in diamond dealing in South Africa.

Behind the inheritance is a story revealing bleak depths of human bitterness and suffering. It goes back to the middle of the last century, when Solomon Wheinsky was a fur dealer at Nishni-Novgorod in Russia.

Solomon revolted against the exorbitant demands of the czarist taxgatherer. His brother, a partner in the business, disappeared mysteriously into the mines of Siberia.

Solomon Wheinsky and two sisters fled. They suffered bitterly from cold and hunger before they reached Riga, whence they got aboard a smuggler's schooner and were taken to Amsterdam, whence Solomon went to London and his two sisters to the United States.

Solomon Wheinsky settled in White-chapel in 1852 and became a "kosher" butcher. He married a Russian girl and changed his name to White. He had two sons, Abel and Aaron.

Aaron married outside his faith, and so long was the continuance of bitterness that Abel's son, David, decided to start life afresh in Australia.

Meantime Aaron White had gone to South Africa, where he joined the group of men about Cecil Rhodes, the uncrowned king of South Africa for the last fifteen years of the last century. It was there that the fortune which has fallen to David White was amassed.

Aaron White traded in diamonds, and he emerged from the welter of those frightful days a wealthy man. He employed his money in speculation and grew richer.

Yields Valuable Timber

Yew is one of the most characteristic evergreen trees in Great Britain. It attains a great age and yields an exceedingly hard timber. Yew was the favorite wood for the old English long-bow, and its extreme hardness renders it suitable for cabinet work, axletrees and the like where strength and durability are required.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Mrs. John H. Dunlap, of near Williamsport, Mrs. Edwin Bitzer and Miss Florence Bitzer, of Chillicothe, Ohio, were hostesses to a one o'clock luncheon Tuesday, August 16, at the Bitzer home, "High Crest." The affair was one of the events being given in honor of Miss Harriet Helen Orr, whose marriage to Mr. Clarkson B. Bitzer, will take place in early September. Lovely coriopsis, delphinium and fern adorned the tables, where a four course luncheon was served to the following guests: Miss Flora Dunlap, Mrs. Paul A. Johnson and Miss Hazel Morgan, of Circleville; Mrs. E. P. Maxwell, Misses Helen and Elizabeth Orr, Mrs. Frank Blue, Mrs. Wheeler Young, Mrs. Curtis Bartley, and Miss Ellen North of Columbus; Mrs. A. Dane Ellis, Mrs. W. S. Fisher, Miss Mildred Holderman, Miss Virginia Lee Orr, and Mrs. W. K. Orr, of Kingston; Mrs. James Tootle, Mrs. Price Ashbrook, Mrs. Frank T. Marr, Misses Helen, Nellie and Josephine Grimes, Mrs. Charles Immel, Mrs. Theodore Spetnagle, Miss Helen Sullivan, Mrs. Fred B. Orr and Miss Dorothy Hyde, of Chillicothe; Miss Hazel Coover, Mrs. Roy Sampson, and Miss Kathleen Armstrong. An attractive gift was presented to the bride-elect. During the afternoon, Mrs. Edwin Bitzer conducted contests, while Mrs. John H. Dunlap sang two solos, "O, Promise Me" and "The Gypsy Love Song."

A beautifully appointed tea was given Thursday afternoon by Mrs. George Sumter Corne and Mrs. William A. Avis at the home of the former on North Court street. The reception was given in four periods from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m. In the receiving line, besides the hostesses were Mrs. John Joy, of Syracuse, New York and Mrs. Thomas Renick, of this city, a recent bride, a niece of Mrs. Corne. The color scheme was yellow and green. The dining room was decorated in yellow calendas and tall tapering green candles. A profusion of fall flowers were the other decorations of the home. About one hundred and fifty ladies were entertained. Out of town guests were present from Chillicothe, Kingston, Ashville, Columbus and Zanesville.

Use Fish Oil to Hold Poison on Fruit Trees

Washington.—Insult is added to injury in the newest trick devised by Department of Agriculture scientists in their war against insect pests. Fish oil, never noted for its fragrance, is recommended by Clifford E. Hoed of the bureau of entomology as an addition to the arsenic solutions sprayed on trees and bushes to protect them from the ravages of gypsy and brown-tail moth caterpillars.

The oil is not expected to discourage the pests by its smell, however—it is highly unlikely that the caterpillars even know it is there. Mr. Hoed has found in his experiments that various oils used in paints will help to hold the dried drips of the poison sprays on the leaves much longer, and that after a summer of rains a considerable percentage of the arsenic will still be there, ready to do business with any caterpillar foolish enough to chew up the leaf to which it adheres.

Linsed oil is even more efficient in this way than is fish oil, but it costs so much more that the fish oil is recommended as the economic happy mean.

Smoke Blight in Paris Brings Action

Paris.—The smoke and fumes of this industrial age are putting blemishes on the face of Paris.

Smoke has not only begun to blacken the once gray wall of Notre Dame, but the poisonous particles from factories and automobile exhaust pipes are gnawing at the delicately carved stonework. Already several pieces have fallen from Notre Dame, from the palace of justice and from other celebrated buildings. Even the Madeleine, the classic Nineteenth century church at the head of the Rue Royale, had to be repaired and cleaned from steps to roof this year.

The city of Paris has appointed a commission to see what can be done about it.
